BENGALURU

Family members of a victim who died during the stampede outside the M.Chinnaswamy Stadium, grieve in front of her body at their residence at Yelahanka in Bengaluru. AFP

A day after the suspension of several senior police officers over the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium stampede case, MLC K. Govindaraj was sacked from the post of political secretary to Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Friday and Additional Director-General of Police (ADGP), Intelligence, Hemant M. Nimbalkar, transferred out.

This came amid criticism of Mr. Govindaraj's role in the IPL victory celebration by the Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) that led to stampede and 11 deaths on Wednesday.

Mr. Govindaraj is a sports enthusiast and administrator and has served as president of the Karnataka Olympic Association. There were also allegations by the Opposition about "intelligence failure" in anticipating the number of fans who turned up at the event.

The Government Order said that the appointment of Mr. Govindaraj as political secretary to the Chief Minister had been revoked with immediate effect.

Mr. Nimbalkar remains ADGP and Commissioner, Department of Information and Public Relations, a post he concurrently holds.

Interestingly, hours before the sacking and transfer orders came, Union Minister and Janata Dal (Secular) leader H.D. Kumaraswamy said at a press conference that Mr. Govindaraj, among others, was "directly responsible" for the tragedy. "One must question the kind of people the Chief Minister surrounds himself with. If this government wants to retain any respect, it must remove these bad elements," Mr. Kumaraswamy said. He also flagged "intelligence failure".

HC restrains police

Meanwhile, the High Court of Karnataka on Friday restrained the police from taking any coercive steps against three members of the managing committee of the Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) based on the first information report (FIR) registered in connection with the stampede.

Justice S.R. Krishna Kumar passed the interim order on petitions filed by KSCA's managing committee, comprising its president Raghuram Bhat, secretary A. Shankar, and treasurer E.S. Jairam.

However, the court directed them to cooperate with the investigation and not to leave the jurisdiction of the court till further orders.

The KSCA stated that it had only rented out the stadium to Royal Challengers Sports Private Ltd. (RCSPL), which owns RCB, apart from facilitating RCSPL in securing permissions from the government agencies for the event. The gates of the stadium and entry and exit were being managed by RCB through DNA Entertainment Pvt. Ltd., the KSCA said.

"The whole purpose of naming the KSCA along with RCB and DNA is to keep someone on the seat of guilt so that the objections and hate of the public against all government heads/several Ministers who are being accused of being responsible for the catastrophe be diverted so that they escape the wrath," the KSCA alleged in the petition.

It was categorically stated in the petition that representatives of KSCA and DNA met the Chief Minister [Siddaramaiah] and sought his support and blessings for the event, and a programme was also organised on the steps of Vidhana Soudha in which Chief Secretary had guided the event.

Date: 07-06-2025

In a shocking midnight incident on June 6, 2025, the historic Satavahana Junior and Degree College in Vijayawada was demolished, erasing over 55 years of educational legacy. The college, run by the Sri Durgamalleshwara Society and located on Visalandhra Road, was targeted by a group of around 20 individuals led by Boyapati Srinivasa Apparao. The group forcefully entered the premises, locked the watchman in a room after snatching his phone, and used excavators to raze the entire building. Furniture from classrooms was loaded into a van and taken away, and boards were erected claiming the land as their own. When one individual attempted to refer to existing court orders, he was reportedly assaulted. The college was established in 1971, following the formation of the Sri Durgamalleshwara Society in 1969 by Gundavarapu Prajapathi Rao and others, with the aim of providing education to Hindu students as an alternative to the missionary-run Andhra Loyola College. The society initially set up a junior art school which was later upgraded to a degree college. To build the campus, the society acquired 2.95 acres of land from Boyapati Apparao, with 1.25 acres being contributed by his sister Vijayalakshmi. While agreements for the land were made, registration was never completed. Legal disputes over the land ensued when Apparao's son, Boyapati Srinivasa Apparao, claimed ownership and approached the court. The society also filed a petition in the district court stating that the land had not been registered. Although the High Court ruled in favor of the society, Srinivasa Apparao appealed to the Supreme Court. According to his lawyer, the verdict was given in his favor after the original petitioners, Prajapathi Rao and then-secretary Vankayalapati Kameswara Rao, withdrew their cases. Following the demolition, a police complaint was lodged by MLC and society member Alapati Rajendra Prasad and founder member Prajapathi Rao. They reported the illegal demolition and occupation to Police Commissioner Rajasekhara Babu and the Suryaraopet Police. A case was registered against Srinivasa Apparao, Dhulipudi Srikanth, Vankayalapati Srinivasa Rao, Nidumolu Ramasa Thannarayanan, and several others. Bijapur police confirmed that sporadic encounters occurred between the security forces and the Maoists, during which Bhaskar was killed. An AK-47 rifle was seized from his possession, along with a large quantity of explosives and revolutionary literature. Bhaskar, a native of Pocharla village in Both mandal of Adilabad district, had joined the armed Maoist movement in 1995. Prior to his involvement in the movement, he worked as a doctor in Ramakrishnapur, where he came into contact with Maoist ideology. He later worked with the People's War Party in several areas of North Telangana and eventually rose to prominence within the Maoist Party, serving as secretary of the Mancherial Area Committee. Known for his strategic role and elusiveness, Bhaskar had previously escaped several police encounters. He had more than 30 criminal cases registered against him and carried a reward of ₹25 lakhs on his head. His death, along with that of Sudhakar, has sparked speculation and suspicion among various quarters. Many are questioning how two senior Maoist leaders—known to be heavily guarded—were killed in quick succession while others reportedly escaped. Some even suspect the nature and authenticity of these encounters.In response to Bhaskar's death, his brother Sitaram stated, "We confirmed that Adellu was our younger brother after seeing the photos in the media. We don't have the money to bring the body here. If the government sends the body, we can perform the last rites and pay off the debt." Meanwhile, in a related development, seven Maoists surrendered to police in Dantewada, Chhattisgarh, on the same day. Dantewada ASP Smitik Rajnala stated that they were influenced by government rehabilitation schemes and appealed to all remaining Maoists to surrender and join the mainstream.

28) Title: Allegations of Fake Encounter in Sudhakar's Death Spark Outrage and Demand for Judicial Probe

Source: AndhraJyothi

Amaravati, June 6 (Andhra Jyoti): The reported death of CPI (Maoist) Central Committee member Tentu Sudhakar in an encounter has ignited controversy and widespread allegations of a fake encounter. Balla Ravindranath, leader of the Political Prisoners Release Committee, has accused the police of staging the encounter. He claimed that several Maoist leaders, including Sudhakar, had already been detained during combing operations in Dandakaranyam, and were being killed one by one in the name of encounters. He questioned the credibility of the official narrative, especially given that Sudhakar, an elderly man, was the only person claimed to be killed initially, followed by the sudden encounter of Telangana Maoist State Committee member Bhaskar at the same location a day later. Ravindranath demanded that the bodies of the Maoist leaders be handed over to their families and that the Centre should stop such killings and instead initiate peace talks, as demanded by the Maoists. He emphasized that this approach is vital for the future of people in the conflict-affected regions. Meanwhile, Indian Association of People's Lawyers (IAPL) member Pichuka Srinivas wrote to the Chief Justice of the Chhattisgarh High Court requesting that Sudhakar's body be preserved and that a postmortem be conducted in the presence of his family members. The demand was made to ensure transparency and fairness in the process. The Andhra Pradesh Civil Liberties Committee (APCLC) also issued a statement. Its President Vedangi Chittibabu and General Secretary Chiluka Chandrasekhar strongly condemned the killing and called for a judicial inquiry. They alleged that the government's "surrender or die" policy is leading to the elimination of elderly leaders rather than giving them a chance to surrender or face legal proceedings. They drew parallels with previous such cases involving Maoist leaders like Renuka and Nambala Kesava Rao, asserting that Sudhakar, too, had the opportunity to be presented in court, but was instead executed. The incident has cast a shadow of grief over Satyavolu village in Pedapadu mandal, Eluru district, the hometown of 65-year-old Sudhakar. Locals are struggling to come to terms with the news. Sudhakar, also known as Tentu Simhachalam, left his home as a student to study Ayurveda and joined the Maoist movement during his early years in Vijayawada. Since then, he had severed all ties with his family. His brother Tentu Ananda Rao and sister Satyavati recalled their only meeting with Sudhakar in Rajahmundry Jail in 1983. Anand Rao emotionally remembered how he once asked Sudhakar to leave his militant life behind, to which Sudhakar replied, "I will give you my flag after my death—send your son." The family has appealed for help to retrieve Sudhakar's body so that they may conduct his last rites, adding a personal and emotional layer to the already politically charged situation

Nellore : The first day of police interrogation of former minister and YSRCP Nellore district president Kakani Govardhan Reddy in the illegal quartz mining case in Podalakur mandal's Rustum Mines ended with vague and evasive responses. Brought from District Central Jail to the Krishnapatnam Port Police Station via Venkatachalam, Kakani faced questioning for over two hours under the supervision of Nellore Rural DSP Ghattamaneni Srinivasa Rao. To most of the questions posed by police and revenue officials, Kakani reportedly responded with statements like "I don't know... I have nothing to do with it... ask our lawyer." Whether it was questions regarding his alleged involvement in illegal mining, transportation, or sale of quartz, he offered no direct answers. When investigators confronted him with claims from his followers that he was the mastermind behind the mining operation, Kakani distanced himself, allegedly stating, "They are being manipulated. I have no connection with them." The interrogation, which lasted until 5 p.m., is scheduled to resume Saturday morning. In the meantime, Kakani will be held at the Krishnapatnam Port Police Station for a total of three days. This development has added intensity to the ongoing investigation into the illegal mineral extraction activities in the region.

Source: AndhraJyothi

Amaravati: The Andhra Pradesh High Court has concluded the hearing on the bail petitions of senior IPS officers PSR Anjaneyulu (A1) and Madhusudhan (A2) in connection with the APPSC Group-1 Mains examination evaluation scam. Justice Mandava Kiranmayi announced that the verdict will be delivered on Monday, June 9. Both officers are currently in judicial custody after the trial court rejected their initial bail requests.During the hearing on Friday, Advocate Nagesh Reddy, representing PSR, argued that the manual evaluation of Group-1 answer sheets was conducted following High Court directions and that all financial dealings with Camsign were transparent. He further mentioned that PSR is facing serious health issues and assured the court that his client would comply with any bail conditions.

On behalf of Madhusudhan, Advocate Umesh Chandra explained that his client was involved only in a contractual capacity, acting under the purview of APPSC. He insisted that IPC Section 409 (criminal breach of trust) is not applicable to Madhusudhan and emphasized his willingness to cooperate with the investigation. He also cited health concerns as a reason for bail.However, Assistant Public Prosecutor Sai Rohit, speaking for the prosecution, strongly opposed the bail. He alleged that PSR was not cooperating with investigators, refused to answer key questions, and was displaying hostility toward investigating officers. He also stated that both PSR and Madhusudhan acted in a conspiratorial manner in the Group-1 evaluation process. The APP argued that granting bail at this stage could influence witnesses, as the investigation is still ongoing.

31)Title: RCB Manager Arrested in Bengaluru Stampede Case; Political and Police Shake-up Follows
Source: AndhraJyothi
Date: 07-06-2025

Bengaluru: In the aftermath of the tragic stampede at the Chinnaswamy Stadium that claimed 11 lives, police have arrested Royal Challengers Bangalore (RCB) marketing manager Nikhil Sosale along with three individuals from DNA Event Management — Sumanth, Kiran, and Sunil Mathew. Sosale was apprehended early Friday morning at the airport while trying to leave for Mumbai with his wife and child, sparking dramatic scenes. The arrests came as part of a probe into the mismanagement and chaos during the RCB IPL victory celebration event in Bengaluru. The police are investigating who authorized the event, who announced free passes and seating, and what led to the massive overcrowding. After their arrest, all four accused were taken for medical tests at Bowring Hospital and then remanded for 14 days by the court. They are now lodged in Parappana Agrahara Jail. Sosale's wife, Malavika, filed a petition in the High Court, alleging that her husband was arrested without proper notice or preliminary inquiry, claiming a violation of fundamental rights. Her petition highlighted that even Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had stated that no due process was followed. During the hearing, senior advocate Sandesh Chauta argued that the police complaint itself was flawed and revealed that the officer who filed it had since been suspended. The High Court has postponed further hearing to June 9. Meanwhile, the Karnataka government has taken strict action against officials responsible for the mishap. The Intelligence ADGP Hemant Nimbalkar was transferred for failing to act in time, and Bengaluru CP, ANP, and DCP had already been suspended. Furthermore, CM's political secretary K. Govindaraju was removed from his position due to allegations of protocol violations and lack of preventive action. The Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) received temporary relief from the High Court. While the court directed that no immediate action be taken against KSCA officials, it did not dismiss the case. KSCA president Raghuram Bhat, secretary A. Shankar, and treasurer ES Jayaram have reportedly gone into hiding. Their legal counsel stated that the responsibility lay with RCB and the government, not KSCA, and argued that law enforcement and crowd control were not in their hands. Political circles are abuzz with criticism over the incident, and the Congress high command is reportedly displeased. Sources say ministers privately blamed Deputy CM Shivakumar for overseeing the event arrangements. CM Siddaramaiah reportedly held closed-door discussions with ministers Zameer Ahmed, Shivananda Patil, and Byrati Suresh before Thursday's cabinet meeting to assess the fallout. The incident continues to unfold, with investigations, suspensions, and political finger-pointing dominating the headlines in Karnataka.

37)Title: Mumbai Court Awards ₹1 Crore Compensation to Domestic Violence Victim
Source: Sakshi
Date: 07-06-2025

Mumbai: A sessions court in Mumbai has increased the compensation to be paid to a woman who is a victim of domestic violence from Rs 5 lakh to Rs 1 crore. It said that her husband, who runs an elevator company, has a huge amount of money and belongs to a family of crorepatis. The court said that the petitioner had faced unimaginable physical and mental torture during the long 20 years she was with her husband. It also increased the amount of maintenance expenses that the husband has to give to his wife and daughter per month from Rs 1 lakh to Rs 1.5 lakh. Additional Sessions Judge S Ansari, Dindoshi, who was hearing a petition filed by the victim (41) challenging the verdict given by the magistrate court in 2020, passed the verdict to this extent under the Prevention of Domestic Violence Act last month. Judge Ansari said that since their marriage in 1997, the petitioner, the victim, has been subjected to severe physical, mental and financial torture and humiliation by her husband and his family. The verdict stated. The victim had to approach the court for maintenance as a last resort. The judge rejected the husband's plea that he was financially ruined because of his wife, that he was facing a lot of difficulties in educating and supporting his two sons, and that he was unable to pay the rent for the house he was staying in. He pointed out that he could not show any evidence in this regard. He commented that he had purchased land worth Rs 1 crore in 2012 and was running an elevator company, which was draining him of money. 'The petitioner is now suffering from being away from his two sons. It also appears that the husband has turned both the sons against their mother. This is a factor that cannot be ignored,' the judge said. He clarified that only after examining all the factors will the amount of maintenance granted to the woman and her daughter be increased in addition to the compensation.
