30. Title: Teachers Protest at Collectorates Across Andhra Pradesh Over Transfer Counseling Shift

Source: Sakshi

Date: 09-06-2025

Teachers across Andhra Pradesh staged protests at district collectorates and DEO offices on Sunday, expressing outrage against the government's sudden change in transfer counseling procedures. The protests erupted after the state government, led by the coalition under Chandrababu Naidu, announced that the ongoing SG (Secondary Grade) teacher transfers would be conducted through online web counseling instead of the previously promised manual counseling process.

This decision sparked anger among teachers' unions, who claimed the government had misled them until the last moment. The unions emphasized that they were assured of manual counseling through consistent discussions over the past nine months. They criticized the government for announcing online counseling with only 48 hours' time for teachers to submit more than 2,500 options, calling the process impractical and unfair.

As a result, massive demonstrations were held outside DEO offices in various districts, and teachers called for intensified actions, including hunger strikes and a plan to besiege the Directorate of School Education. Around 60,000 SG teachers are affected in the current transfer cycle, with approximately 35,000 teachers due for mandatory transfers as they have completed eight years of service at their current locations. Currently, the state school education department employs 1.79 lakh teachers, out of which 1.3 lakh are SG teachers.

The government had earlier claimed that the 2025 AP State Teacher Transfer Regulation Act would address key concerns. However, after the act was passed in April 2025, it clearly stated that transfers would be carried out through online counseling, contradicting previous verbal assurances. Teachers who were expecting manual counseling based on prior meetings felt betrayed and called for the cancellation of the online procedure.

Regular meetings had been held with teachers' associations every Friday since September 2024 to discuss reforms in the education system. Unions requested changes including the merger of Classes 3–5 into primary schools and manual counseling for transfers. Despite these discussions and over 40 meetings, the sudden shift to an online-only mode triggered widespread dissent.

When proper clarifications on manual counseling did not emerge from the Directorate of School Education, union representatives boycotted the discussions. Although the education secretary arranged another meeting the following day to calm tensions, the damage had been done, and protests escalated.

Source: Andhra Jyothi
Date: 09-06-2025

Visakhapatnam:State Home Minister Vangalapudi Anitha said the newly launched ‘Astram’ mobile app will greatly help drivers in overcoming traffic problems in the city. She officially launched the app, developed by the police department, during a press meet held at the Commissionerate's conference hall on Sunday.

Minister Anitha stated that with the rise in national and international events as well as VIP visits to Visakhapatnam, traffic congestion has increased, causing inconvenience to commuters. To address this, under the initiative of City Police Commissioner Shankha Brata Bagchi, the police developed the ‘Astram’ mobile app, which provides real-time updates about traffic conditions.

By downloading the app through Telegram, users can get updates on current traffic conditions, accidents, jams, or VIP movements and routes. The data is refreshed every 15 minutes, allowing commuters to plan alternate routes and save time, Anitha explained.

Commissioner Bagchi added that after Bengaluru, Visakhapatnam is the only city in India to make such a public app available. Though a similar app exists in Vijayawada, it is accessible only to police officers. In contrast, Visakhapatnam's version is public-friendly and continuously updated with traffic-related information.

The app helps the police in identifying congested areas and clearing them immediately. Based on web application data, monthly reports can be generated, and suggestions can be made for improvements at frequently congested junctions. Bagchi announced that within the next three months, the app's full features will be rolled out to the public.

He also appreciated Tirumala Rao and Srinivas for developing the app. Following the launch, the Home Minister distributed air-conditioned helmets to traffic police personnel.

DCPs Mary Prashanthi, Ajitha Vajendla, Krishna Patil, and others were present at the event.

NEW DELHI: A 29-year-old woman was assaulted and strangled to death inside a hotel room in Paharganj, central Delhi, allegedly by her 31-year-old boyfriend on Saturday, police said on Sunday, adding that the accused, who stayed with the woman's body during the night, has been arrested.

Deputy commissioner of police (DCP) (central) Nidhin Valsan said the Nabi Karim police received a call at 9.47am on Sunday from the staff at Hotel Rohit Deluxe in Paharganj. The caller told police that a couple had stayed overnight in a room. In the morning, they saw the man leave hurriedly while the woman was found lying motionless inside the bathroom. DCP Valsan said their relationship was estranged because the victim had an affair with another person, which angered the suspect and led to the murder.

"After reaching the hotel, our team found out that the couple had checked in at 4.15pm on Saturday. Around 8.30am on Sunday, the hotel staff noticed the man leaving. Subsequently, they discovered the woman lying in the bathroom and informed police," said Valsan. Police said hotel staff checked the room as the door was not locked and the woman was unresponsive to knocks and the doorbell.

Probe also revealed that during the stay, they ordered pizza and lassi through room service at 6pm on Saturday. The staff, in their statement, claimed they did not hear or see anything suspicious at the time, the officer said.

"The couple worked together in a clock manufacturing unit in Delhi. They were in a relationship for the past few years. The man recently learnt that she was having an affair with another person. She was distancing herself from him but he did not want to let go. The two argued in the hotel room over the issue on Saturday. The man assaulted her and then strangled her using a drawstring," the officer said.

The couple had used their Aadhaar cards to check in, according to which the man was a resident of Malka Ganj in north Delhi and the woman was from Burari, in north Delhi. Valsan said the accused was arrested on Sunday evening from northwest Delhi's Ashok Vihar.

The victim's body was sent to a nearby government hospital for autopsy.

After medical exam findings confirmed murder, a case was registered under section 103 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita at Nabi Karim police station and teams were formed to track down the man, an officer said, asking not to be named.

"Through technical surveillance and human intelligence, his location was traced to the Ashok Vihar," added the officer.
