9)Title: Amaravati Development Accelerates: ₹1,052 Cr Infrastructure Push, Focus on Green & Blue Capital Vision

Source: Andhraprabha

Date: 14/06/2025

Amaravati:The Andhra Pradesh government has ramped up efforts to develop the government complexes in Amaravati, with Chief Minister N. Chandrababu Naidu taking decisive steps to expedite construction and centralize administrative operations in the capital. As part of the capital reconstruction work, the government is moving forward with a first-phase plan estimated at ₹64,000 crore, with the tender process for various components nearly complete. In a crucial 49th CRDA Authority meeting held at the Undavalli camp office, attended by key officials including Minister Ponguru Narayana, CRDA Commissioner K. Kannababu, and ADCL CMD D. Lakshmi Parthasarathy, several key infrastructure and environmental strategies were discussed.The government has granted permission to invite tenders worth ₹1,052 crore for developing infrastructure across 1,450 acres in Amaravati. This includes the construction of iconic towers, the General Administration Department (GAD) buildings, and Head of Department (HOD) office complexes. Notably, tenders have already been finalized for ₹844 crore for the GAD towers, ₹1,423 crore for Towers 1 and 2 of the HIVDs, and ₹1,247 crore for Towers 3 and 4. These towers are being constructed at Rayapudi–Nelapadu on either side of Palavagu, with building designs ranging up to G+39 and G+49 floors.In addition, the CRDA approved the construction of a vital road connecting the Seed Access Road to National Highway-16 at a cost of ₹682 crore. The original designs—connecting NH-16 at Kanakadurgamma bridge via Undavalli—were recently revised on the Chief Minister's suggestion to enable a direct connection to NH-16, which is expected to lower construction costs and improve transportation efficiency.Parallel to the infrastructure focus, Amaravati's vision as a "Green and Blue Capital" also gained momentum. Environmental experts and professors from across India attended a two-day workshop on biodiversity and met with CM Chandrababu Naidu to share sustainable urban development ideas. Experts including Prof. C.R. Babu from Delhi University, Prof. Ravi Prasad Rao from Sri Krishnadevaraya University, and others visited ecological areas such as Ananthavaram Hills, Sakthi Mooru Park, Malkapuram Water Body, CRDA zones, and ADCL Park to assess biodiversity potential and existing green infrastructure. They later presented detailed strategies to the Chief Minister, covering species selection, tree transplantation, sustainable landscape design, and long-term ecological planning.During the meeting, CM Chandrababu Naidu emphasized that 30% of Amaravati's land must be reserved for green and blue spaces, incorporating extensive parks and river-based beautification. He stressed the need for a robust horticulture plan to guide sustainable development. Minister Narayana also shared insights from his recent visit to Uttar Pradesh, where he observed Lucknow's riverfront development and solid waste management systems. He revealed that UP officials are expected to visit Amaravati to further explore these models.With renewed momentum and expert involvement, Amaravati is being reimagined not just as an administrative hub but as a model eco-friendly capital city, blending iconic infrastructure with environmental sustainability.

15)Title: Sanitation Workers Rejoice as Bobbili Court Dismisses Long-Pending Case

Source: Sakshi

Date: 14/06/2025

Bobbili: Sanitation workers in Bobbili celebrated on Friday after the local court dismissed a long-standing case filed against them during protests held under the previous TDP government. CITU District President Potnuru Shankara Rao addressed the media and confirmed that the case, which had lingered for several years, was dismissed due to lack of evidence.

The case dates back to the statewide municipal workers' strike during the tenure of the previous government, in protest against the controversial 279 GVO (Government Vesting Order). In response to the strike, the government had deployed private sanitation workers. Tensions rose when regular municipal workers allegedly tried to block the replacement workers, during which municipal property was reportedly damaged. As a result, the police filed cases against 20 sanitation workers, accusing them of involvement in the destruction.

However, after years of legal proceedings, the judge ruled in favor of the workers, citing insufficient evidence to support the charges. Senior advocate Chandana Suryanarayana represented the workers and successfully argued for their acquittal.

Following the verdict, sanitation workers expressed relief and joy, calling the outcome a victory for justice and workers' rights. Potnuru Shankara Rao praised the legal team and reiterated that truth and justice always prevail, urging continued unity among laborers in their pursuit of fair treatment.

Date: 14/06/2025

London, June 14: South Africa is poised to script a new chapter in its cricketing history as the team stands just 69 runs away from winning the World Test Championship (WTC) final against defending champions Australia at the iconic Lord’s Cricket Ground. Chasing a target of 282 runs, South Africa reached 213/2 at stumps on Friday, thanks to stellar batting performances from Aiden Markram and captain Temba Bavuma.

Markram led the charge with a magnificent unbeaten 102 off 159 balls, laced with 11 boundaries. Bavuma, on the other hand, played a composed captain's knock, scoring 65 not out off 121 balls, with five fours. The duo stitched an unbeaten 143-run partnership for the third wicket, placing South Africa within touching distance of a historic WTC triumph.South Africa's chase, however, didn't start smoothly. Opener Ryan Rickelton was dismissed early by Mitchell Starc for just 6 runs. Despite this setback, Markram stood firm. He found initial support from Wiaan Mulder, with whom he added 61 runs for the second wicket before Mulder fell for 27.What followed was a masterclass in partnership batting. Markram and Bavuma rotated the strike smartly, punished loose deliveries, and built their stand with patience and precision. Markram brought up his century in 156 balls, while Bavuma reached his fifty in 83 balls.Earlier in the day, Australia was bowled out for 207 in their second innings, mainly due to an excellent spell from South African pacers Kagiso Rabada (4 wickets) and Lungi Ngidi (3 wickets). Despite being reduced to 144/8 overnight, the Aussies were lifted by a gritty and historic innings from Mitchell Starc, who remained unbeaten on 58 off 136 balls. He shared a crucial 59-run stand with Josh Hazlewood (17), helping Australia set a respectable target. Starc also broke the record for the highest score by a No. 9 batsman in an ICC final, surpassing Courtney Browne's 35 in the 2004 Champions Trophy.Australia's innings also saw a handy 43-run knock from Alex Carey, but a mid-innings collapse saw them slip from 73/3 to 144/8.Notably, Australia had posted 212 in their first innings, while South Africa were bundled out for 138, giving the Aussies a first-innings lead of 74 runs. But the momentum shifted decisively on Day 4, with South Africa now on the verge of sealing their maiden WTC title.

Amaravati: There are allegations that some unauthorized companies manufacturing agricultural equipment in the state are putting up stickers that resemble branded companies and are cheating farmers. Moreover, AP Agros has come to the notice that some companies are luring farmers by saying that they will give them at a lower price than the branded companies. The Agriculture Department has come to the notice that since the equipment is available in the market at a price lower than the Net Dealer Price (NDP) of the branded companies recognized by AP Agros, farmers are being cheated by buying them on the pretext that they are being given cheaply. Currently, the branded companies
While rotavators cost from Rs. 1.30 lakh to Rs. 1.45 lakh depending on the model, AP Agros is providing rotavators of leading companies to farmers at a subsidy of Rs. 50 thousand. However, a public representative from Eluru district brought the matter to the attention of Agriculture Department Director Dilli Rao that farmers were buying them at a lower price in the market. With this, the Director Agros inquired about the prices of authorized companies and the prices of rotavators purchased by farmers. Agros officials are investigating in depth how they are being sold now at the price that was there six years ago. Officials suspect that rotavators manufactured by companies not registered with Agros are being sold with stamps to resemble the names of branded companies. With this, it is suggested that farmers should not be fooled by fake companies and buy agricultural equipment from dealers of companies recognized by AP Agros.

34)Title: Vizianagaram Police Deploy Drones to Crack Down on Public Drinking and Drug Use

Source: Andhra Jyothi

Vizianagaram District: On June 8, a new method of surveillance led to major breakthroughs in Vizianagaram district's efforts to control substance abuse. Using drone technology, police discovered individuals drinking alcohol in public at Nandiguddi area of Poolbagh. The drone captured clear photographs and real-time video, allowing police to reach the location quickly and catch the culprits red-handed.

On the same day, similar drone surveillance in remote areas of Kanapaka and Ayyannapeta, under the jurisdiction of the One Town Police Station, identified other groups drinking alcohol in open places. These individuals were also apprehended, and cases were registered immediately.

In total, 6 cases were filed at the One Town Police Station and 11 cases at the Two Town Police Station on the same day—all aided by drone technology. Unlike traditional patrols where word of police arrival spreads quickly, drones provide stealthy, real-time monitoring. Their rapid data transmission has enabled officers to act before offenders can escape, significantly boosting the efficiency of enforcement.

Encouraged by the success, authorities now plan to expand drone surveillance to all police stations in the district. This is a key part of the government's strict liquor control policy, under which public alcohol consumption will no longer be tolerated.

Crackdown on Marijuana and Narcotics

The district's anti-drug measures are also being intensified. Drones will be deployed to monitor and intercept the transportation and consumption of marijuana and other narcotics. After the Special Enforcement Bureau (SEB) was abolished, the Excise Prohibition Department was reactivated, and an Eagle Team was formed specifically to combat drug trafficking.

These teams will be equipped with high-end vehicles, modern surveillance equipment, and drones to track illegal activity. Vizianagaram remains a key source and transit point for marijuana, with connections to neighboring states Odisha and Chhattisgarh. The use of drones aims to disrupt this supply chain at the source.

In the past, police relied on CCTV camera networks to monitor urban crime. Now, with advanced drone technology, enforcement is reaching even remote areas, making it harder for offenders to evade law enforcement.

District SP Vakul Ajindal personally operated a drone during the campaign, signaling the department's commitment to using smart policing techniques to combat rising drug and liquor-related offenses.

Thottambedu: Guru in the Telugu Ganga Canal
The body of Muralikrishna (18), a student who went swimming for a week and went missing, was found on Friday. Muralikrishna, Prashanth and Dhanush, who are from Chottanidigallu in Srikalahasti mandal, went swimming in the Telugu Ganga canal near Chinnasingamala in Thottambedu mandal on Thursday and drowned due to the rising water. In this incident, Dhanush and Prashanth were able to swim and reached the shore, while Muralikrishna went missing. In this order, search operations were carried out for Muralikrishna, who went missing on Friday, and it was found that Muralikrishna's body was stuck in the motors installed by farmers in the Ganga canal near Kallipudi in the mandal. The body was taken to the area hospital under the supervision of Srikalahasti Second Town CI Nagarjuna Reddy. The Panchnama was handed over to the parents of the deceased.

37)Title: Centre Orders Safety Inspections and Reevaluates Boeing Aircraft Use Following Ahmedabad Incident

Source: Andhra Jyothi

Ahmedabad : In the wake of a technical scare involving a Boeing Dreamliner 787-8 aircraft in Ahmedabad, the Indian government has intensified scrutiny of Boeing aircraft operating in the country. The Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has ordered comprehensive technical inspections of all Boeing aircraft, especially the B787-8 and B787-9 models with GenX engines, starting Sunday. These inspections will focus on several critical systems, including fuel parameter monitoring, cabin air compressors, electronic engine control systems, hydraulic systems, and take-off parameters. The DGCA has also asked for a review of the frequent faults observed in these aircraft over the past 15 days, with inspection reports to be submitted promptly.

India currently operates 209 Boeing aircraft across various airlines, with Air India alone accounting for 135 of them. The DGCA's move comes amid rising concerns over whether Air India is adhering to standard operating procedures. Following the Ahmedabad incident, the Centre is reportedly considering reducing the number of Boeing aircraft in operation, pending investigation outcomes.

Meanwhile, an unrelated incident further escalated safety concerns when Air India flight AI 379, flying from Phuket to Delhi, made an emergency landing back in Phuket after receiving a bomb threat. The flight, carrying 156 passengers, safely returned, and all passengers were deplaned while a full inspection was conducted.

Amid these developments, Boeing's delivery capabilities are also under question. Due to strikes and operational delays at its plants in Washington and Oregon, the company has failed to meet delivery deadlines, forcing airlines to reconsider their orders. Air India, which placed an order for 220 Boeing aircraft in 2023—including 50 Boeing 737s and 20 Boeing 787s—is now reportedly evaluating alternatives. IndiGo has already placed orders for 900 Airbus aircraft, and Akasa Air, despite ordering 226 Boeing 737 MAX jets, has yet to receive any deliveries.

These incidents and operational concerns may lead to reduced future orders for Boeing in India. With 1,148 Dreamliners flying worldwide, India's heightened regulatory oversight underscores its commitment to aviation safety and accountability in commercial airline operations.

Properties of ganja smugglers seized

SREENU BABU PATIVADA
@Vizianagaram

IN a decisive move against organised drug trafficking, Vizianagaram police have intensified their crackdown on ganja smugglers by attaching properties amassed through illegal trade under the Revenue Recovery (RR) Act.

In the last five months, assets worth ₹2.42 crore belonging to two notorious smugglers have been seized.

Vizianagaram district Superintendent of Police Vakul Jindal, who has been spearheading the anti-ganja operations, said that Vizianagaram serves as a key gateway for the transport of ganja from the neighbouring Alluri Sitharama Raju (ASR) district in Andhra Pradesh and Odisha to other parts of the country.

The rise in ganja smuggling has coincided with an increase in drug addiction among youth, especially college students, leading to a surge in crimes including sexual offences and theft.

Taking charge of the situation, SP Jindal constituted a 10-member special team dedicated to identifying smugglers, peddlers, consumers, and the kingpins behind the network.

Over the past few months, hundreds of kilograms of ganja have been seized, and several cases have been registered under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act and other provisions. Recognising the social dimension of the crisis, the district police launched a unique initiative, "SANKALPAM," with the slogan "Be Smart – Don't Start," to educate the youth about the perils of drug abuse.

After achieving encouraging results in Vizianagaram, the initiative has been scaled up across Andhra Pradesh as "Maha Sankalpam."

As part of dismantling the financial foundations of the ganja mafia, police attached assets worth ₹2 crore belonging to Setti Umamaheswararao of Visakhapatnam, a key figure in multiple smuggling cases.

Another ₹42.7 lakh worth of property owned by Pati Khila of Odisha was also seized recently.

Speaking to TNIE, Vizianagaram district Superintendent of Police (SP) Vakul Jindal said, "We are adopting a multi-pronged approach, combining strict enforcement with public awareness. The ganja mafia exploits innocent youth for profits. We will invoke the Preventive Detention (PD) Act against habitual offenders and continue attaching their assets."

He reiterated the police's firm commitment to eradicating ganja smuggling and protecting the younger generation from the dangers of narcotic abuse.

40.Title: Italian Tourist's Derogatory Remarks on Indian Culture Spark Nationwide Outrage

Source: Hindustan Times
Date: 16-06-2025

New Delhi:A video of Italian tourist Marco Bellini, who recently visited India as part of a spiritual retreat group, has gone viral after he made offensive remarks about Indian people and culture during an interview with a foreign podcast.

"India is chaos pretending to be culture. The streets smell like incense and garbage, the people are always staring, and they think loud religious festivals make up for basic hygiene,"

Marco said during the episode, which aired last week.He also claimed that Indian hospitality was "fake" and called the country's traditions "backward and overhyped for tourists."

The remarks triggered a massive backlash on social media, with users demanding an apology and calling for Marco to be blacklisted from future travel to India. Cultural scholars and public figures condemned the racist and colonial undertones of the statement, while tourism forums began debating the need for cultural sensitivity awareness among international travelers.
